Cllr Elliot reported to the Council on behalf of the planning working group.

Cllr Elliot reviewed for CLRs that these applications are seeking permission under agricultural permitted development rights (conversion) to convert agricultural buildings to dwellinghouses. They have made three applications based on the three structures on the site. CLRs reviewed pictures of the buildings and site which were taken by the working group both recently and in 2021 when previous applications were made. The following issues were identified and discussed by councillors:

The structural feasibility report is out of date (2021) and it was noted by Councillors that there appears to be deterioration of the buildings since this report and the report itself provides credentials that could not be verified by the working group.

The site still shows considerable evidence of domestic and commercial (content unspecified) waste. The environmental report provided was a desk-based exercise without a site visit.

Criterion for conversion to dwellinghouses requires buildings to be in use as agricultural, and evidence that there were commercial uses was discussed.
